 - ◊ Strongly Agree
15. Comment on the quality of instruction in this course. (Q900)
 - ◊ I think Nicole is an okay lecturer(for my learning style which is very unique) but I think where she strikes gold is a mentor for your search engine which is much more important and you usually learn most of the course material from other people in your group. It's like one large study group. I love how interactive she is but I do wish that her slides were more like James Juett's in the sense where she would present problems and ask students to solve them within 5 minutes during lecture time . I also think her code style can be hard to read since it's very C-esque.

16. What were the strengths of the course ? (Q953)

- ◊ The fact that you're on a team of 6 is not like any other class. It's also very interesting using functions and programming stuff from scratch like the ranker and the constraint solver. The homeworks definitely helped but meeting with a team and making design choices is nothing like any other class I've been in, except for maybe 482 which is on a much smaller scale.

17. What suggestions would you make for improving the course ? (Q955)

- ◊ The diversity recommendations below. I also think having more IA's would help, but obviously nobody could IA this class since it was the first time its been offered in years.

18. How might the class climate be made more inclusive of diverse students? (Q910)

- ◊ I don't like how lines of code are compared and teams are compared. I think there should be some sort of percentage weighting of contributions within a team but not lines of code(although I know you said people dont hard-count the lines of code for individual members and do percentage splits). I feel like comparing other teams sort of makes it cutthroat. Especially since the team in front of us(the magnificent six or whatever) started working on the engine over winter break, before our team was even formed since I was a standalone member. I do feel like that is pretty unfair and it doesn't seem attractive to students, especially when there are classes like 497 that are easy A's. I also think the class should be an A based on if you get the engine done because it's no small feat.

19. Was this class what you expected? Did anything surprise you?

- ◊ Yes. I was surprised by how smooth working with 6 people would go, I thought I'd need to go to her office hours a lot more but it didn't turn out that way. It was fun!

20. What will your memories be of this class?

- ◊ A class that taught me how to work with a large scale team where you have to split up the work. Before in classes like 280 or 485, it was 3 people you would regularly meet with. Now you meet with 3 people still, but you need to communicate with the other 3 as well even though you're not meeting with them. That is very unique. This is 100% a class that should be offered every semester. The MDE/capstone options in Michigan computer science are extremely lackluster given how "prestigious" our program is, with the only worthwhile ones being 470 and 494 which are super niche. This is a MDE that should interest anyone that still wants something very applicable(not architecture or a game under unity) and will get them a job. The other MDE classes are a joke and it would be a shame if this is not offered anymore due to how garbage the selections are. Classes like 497 where you can put up 300 lines of code and 99% get an A are not major design experiences, they are blowoffs.

15. Comment on the quality of instruction in this course. (Q900)
 - ◊ Prof. Hamilton was very knowledgeable (unsurprising given her background at Bing) and delivered us all the information we needed to do well on the project in a clear manner.
16. What were the strengths of the course ? (Q953)
 - ◊ The semester-long project is of a greater scope than that of any other class I've taken, and also is much cooler. I have a lot of good experience and interview fodder because of this class.
17. What suggestions would you make for improving the course ? (Q955)
 - ◊ [No Response]
18. How might the class climate be made more inclusive of diverse students? (Q910)
 - ◊ I never got the impression that "diverse students" (I assume you mean non White male) students were treated any differently.
19. Was this class what you expected? Did anything surprise you?
 - ◊ It was pretty much what I expected, which I am thankful for. What surprised me was the general ban on using the C++ standard library, so we spent some extra time implementing things like string and vector, which felt like a bit of a waste. I know Prof. Hamilton has her reasons for this, but most students (including me) were not too happy about it.

20. What will your memories be of this class?

15. Comment on the quality of instruction in this course. (Q900)
 - ◊ Deliberately hands-off, I feel, but lectures were helpful and informative — niche information that was hard to find online. Hamilton's expertise in the subject showed.
16. What were the strengths of the course ? (Q953)
 - ◊ The ability to work in a larger team and designing a system from the ground up. I liked going from a string implementation to a full working search engine.
17. What suggestions would you make for improving the course ? (Q955)
 - ◊ Having the instructor be more hands-on, especially at the beginning, might've been helpful with overall design.
18. How might the class climate be made more inclusive of diverse students? (Q910)
 - ◊ [No Response]
19. Was this class what you expected? Did anything surprise you?
 - ◊ This was about what I expected from the class.
20. What will your memories be of this class?
 - ◊ I feel like the experience of working in a larger group, and how to handle all of that, might be more prominent to me than the technical details.

16. What were the strengths of the course ? (Q953)
 - ◊ The project is very hands on and teaches us lessons about scalability, working on a team, and making design decisions that are rare to come by in other courses.
17. What suggestions would you make for improving the course ? (Q955)
 - ◊ I think the policy of not using the stl and coding everything ourselves is becoming outdated. In order to make the best possible engine, we should be able to use all the tools at our disposal.

about.

15. Comment on the quality of instruction in this course. (Q900)
 - ◊ Hamilton earnestly wants all students to succeed. If your team needs more time on an assignment, or has a question, she's pretty much always willing to accomodate because she cares about what your team can create in the end. She's very opinionated, but in a way that shows she cares about the material and also the quality of your team's search engine.
16. What were the strengths of the course ? (Q953)
 - ◊ The course's concept is really cool, it definitely stands out among other EECS classes. Having freedom to work on a team but also learn more about the inner workings of a search engine and other systems was very interesting, even if I couldn't quite understand or retain all of it by the end.
17. What suggestions would you make for improving the course ? (Q955)
 - ◊ I think there could be more structure to the assignments. Sometimes they wouldn't quite line up with lecture topics

19. Was this class what you expected? Did anything surprise you?
 - ◊ It was harder than expected to integrate the different chunks of code written by different people together. For other classes where I coded in groups (482 for example), we always wrote code together but in a larger group this is impossible so we split things up. Writing interfaces for other people to use was surprisingly difficult.
